Reporting responsibly and credibly on violence and traumatic events — on street crime and family violence, natural disasters and accidents, civil unrest, war and genocide — is a great challenge. To help meet this challenge, Dart Centre Australasia, an associated project of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism in New York City, invites journalists and their editors to apply for the inaugural Dart Asia Fellowship programme.

Fellows will attend a five day seminar programme in Bangkok, Thailand, from October 12–16, 2009, featuring briefings by leading experts in the trauma field and discussions with colleagues about covering tragedy and violence.

Fellowships are open to senior print, broadcast and online reporters, photographers, editors and producers with at least five years' full-time journalism experience.

Applications should be submitted jointly by one editor and one senior journalist from a single news organisation.

Applicants must come from the Philippines, Sri Lanka, Cambodia, Japan, Indonesia or Thailand.

Applicants must possess a strong command of the English language as all presentations will be made in English.
